Partner with Purpose: Support ICAN and Strengthen Our Community

About Us

The Irvington Community Advocacy Network (ICAN) is a grassroots nonprofit serving Irvington and the greater Indianapolis area. Through our Assistance Center and Food Pantry, ICAN addresses food insecurity, poverty, and other related challenges by offering personalized support and connecting clients with a broad network of local resources to promote lasting stability and well-being. As a long-standing presence in the Irvington neighborhood, ICAN's mission is centered around empathy and helping neighbors navigate life with dignity and care.

Why We Need You

Communities across Indianapolis—including Irvington—are experiencing a sharp rise in economic hardship. Inflation has driven up the cost of food, utilities, and other basic needs, while poverty rates continue to climb. For many families, seniors, and individuals, everyday essentials have become out of reach.

At the same time, critical federal funding for food assistance programs is being reduced, and the landscape for public and private grants has grown increasingly competitive. These shifts place significant strain on small, community-based nonprofits like ICAN, even as the demand for services continues to grow.

Despite these challenges, ICAN remains committed to meeting urgent needs through our food access, housing advocacy, and neighborhood outreach initiatives. To continue this essential work, we are seeking increased support from local business partners.

Your sponsorship not only fills a vital funding gap—it strengthens the very fabric of our community. Together, we can ensure that every neighbor has access to the support, resources, and dignity they deserve.
